What's Up With Academics!

Mrs. Bradford, Principal

We all need school! It's worth it. For starters, school helps you do better on standardized tests. This may not seem like a big deal to you, but you need these tests to graduate. Standardized tests are designed to see how much you know about core subjects like English, math, science, and social studies. Pass the test, and you'll be in good shape. Fail the test, and you may have problems graduating.

You may not be thinking much about what college you'd like to attend or what kind of job you'd like to have. That's OK- you've got time to decide. But the subjects you're learning now do more than help you pass tests. They can help you get the skills you need to succeed at college or work.
